

GDPR

The Company reserves the right to record and process company data related only to the services provided, and ensures that are not used for other purposes, unless required by law or to protect company's rights.

Company data are considered the client/company name, contact person and position, company contact details (telephone/emails), orders' details, banking and financial data related to the service provided only.

In case a Client representative gives voluntarily his/her personal contact details (telephone, mobile, email), we ensure that these data are accessible by authorized personnel only, and that the Client representative may recall/delete them at any time by sending an email request at info@newnaval.gr

According to the applicable regulations, we implement procedures to protect from unauthorized access and misuse of company and/or personal data

Third Parties: We cooperate with third parties related to the services provided only (courier, logistics, accounting services, IT Support) and we transmit only the necessary company data in order to fulfill their contractual requirements. These third parties have signed confidentiality statements not allowing them to use these data for other purposes.

The Client may exercise his/her rights derived from the applicable regulations regarding company and/or personal data protection at any time by sending an email request at info@newnaval.gr

Cookies Policy

Cookies : Small pieces of data used by the user's web browser in order to enhance the website operation, allowing also to identify the user's settings or preferences every time he/she returns to the website.

We use the following cookies when browsing our website:

- Identification of user's location / IP Address
- Identification of user's browser and its edition
- Company webpage(s) and time spent in each one

Cookies are downloaded only if the user accepts our cookie policy in the relevant pop up message